

Graduate Student Position in Immunology

A graduate student position is available towards a master's or a Ph.D. degree in Immunology in Azad K. Kaushik's laboratory, Department of Molecular And Cellular Biology, University of Guelph. The graduate studies may be in the area of basic and/or translational aspects of bovine antibody genetics, antibody engineering and transgenesis or systemic autoimmune disease. Applicants should have an aptitude for research and a degree (DVM preferred) or research experience relevant to Immunology. Qualified applicants with funding support from an appropriate source are encouraged to submit resume, a copy of transcript, and a covering letter outlining a statement of interest along with names of two academic referees to Dr. Azad K. Kaushik (akaushik@uoguelph.ca). Preference will be given to Canadian citizens or permanent residents of Canada.