

Preliminary Web Course Description

*Please note: This is a preliminary web course description only. The department reserves the right to change without notice any information in this description. The final, binding course outline will be distributed in the first class of the semester.

School of English and Theatre Studies

Course Code: ENGL*2260	Course Title: Law and Literature	Date of Offering: FALL 2018
---------------------------	----------------------------------	---------------------------------------

Course Instructor: Mark Fortier	Course Format: Lecture/Discussion
---------------------------------	-----------------------------------

Brief Course Synopsis:

This course will be an introduction to the complex relations between literature and law, with an emphasis on how literature looks at law. Among the texts that may be studied: Antigone or The Oresteia, Measure for Measure, Fear and Misery of the Third Reich, To Kill a Mockingbird, Twelve Years a Slave, Gross Indecency, short stories by Franz Kafka, "A Jury of Her Peers," The Outsider, The Trial of Lady Chatterley's Lover, The Price of Salt, The Oxbow Incident.

Methods of Evaluation and Weight:

There will be in-class tests and/or short assignments, participation, and a take-home exam.

Texts and/or Resources Required (e.g. Internet access, specific textbook title, lab kit, etc.)

Course texts, courselink, internet

Other information that you wish share about the course (optional):

List the distribution requirements that this course fulfills: