

Re-Imagining Communities and Civil Society Conference

The central aim of this conference is to explore what role social movements, artists, intellectuals, writers, cultural institutions and others play in shaping our ideas of community, civil society and the connections between the two. We are especially interested in papers and panels that examine how the creation and strengthening of ties between communities and civil society promote democratization in Europe and/or Latin America. However, we welcome abstracts on any aspect of community and civil society.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

James F. English
John Welsh Centennial Professor of English
Director of the Penn Humanities Forum

Saturday Oct. 26, 9:00-10:00 am

Judith Adler Hellman
Professor of Political and Social Science,
Coordinator of Latin American and Caribbean Studies Program, York University

Friday Oct. 25, 6:15-7:15 pm

Philip Oxhorn
Professor of Political Science,
Founding Director of the Institute for the Study of International Development, McGill University

Saturday Oct. 26, 1:45-2:45pm

Conference will be held at Macdonald Stewart Art Centre