Brief Course Synopsis:
This course is focused on the disciplinary skill of close reading and is intended for students planning to specialize in the study of English Literature. Through a series of case studies, the course introduces students to a range of historical and national writings in various genres (for example, prose, poetry, film), and to some of the key terms and concepts in contemporary literary studies. Lectures and discussions address selected works from the Middle Ages onwards, the periods in which these works were produced, and some of the ways in which these texts have been or could be interpreted.

Course Format:
Lecture & Seminar

Methods of Evaluation and Weights:
- Exercises (best 3 of 5): 15%
- Close reading (350-500 words): 15%
- Midterm exam: 20%
- Essay pre-writing (300-350 words): 5%
- Essay (900-1200 words): 20%
- Final exam: 25%

Texts and/or Resources Required (e.g. Internet access, specific textbook title, lab kit, etc.)

Subject to change:
- H. G. Wells, The Time Machine
- Jonathan Swift, Gulliver's Travels
- Helen Oyeyemi, Boy, Snow, Bird
- Eugene Vinaver (ed.) King Arthur and His Knights (Oxford University Press--please buy this edition, not another version of the King Arthur tales)
- Ross Murfin and Supryia Ray, The Bedford Glossary of Critical and Literary Terms (Palgrave Macmillan). If you have an older edition than the one in the bookstore that’s fine, but you will need to check the assigned definitions remain the same and update as necessary.

The rest of the texts are available through Literature Online (a database accessed through the library website), library reserve, or websites (this is my attempt to keep your course costs down). You are responsible for bringing a hard or electronic copy of texts to classes, especially seminars.
