Description

This course provides an introduction to philosophical issues in feminism and feminist issues in philosophy. In the first part of the course, we look briefly at some philosophical issues in the history and development of feminist theory and movements. Following that, we look at second-wave feminist theory and philosophy. The second part of the course covers feminist issues that arise in the discipline of philosophy, focusing on issues of sex and gender.

Information about the Course and Assignments

Laptops may not be used in class unless (1) you are registered with Student Accessibility Services, or (2) you have documentation indicating that you are taking notes for SAS. Anyone using a laptop must have a sticker from SAS on the outside of their laptop. No other electronic devices, including but not limited to cellphones, may be used without my permission.

If you are on Academic Probation, you have until Friday, January 19 to tell me, so we can work together to help you do well in this course.

The essays and take-home final exam will be 800-1000 words each, 1200 words maximum, on assigned topics. You will have some choice of topics.

Essays are due at the beginning of class.

Course readings and discussions must be central to your analysis in your essays. Work in which the relevant course readings and discussions are not central may be assigned a grade of zero.

I reserve the right to require an oral examination as part of any written piece of work. In that case, the oral examination counts for 75% of your grade on that assignment.

All assignments must be spell-checked. We will take 10% off your grade on the assignment for the kinds of mistakes that spell-check would have caught.

I give a two-day, no-questions-asked extension on the essays (note: not the final exam). For longer extensions, I may require a note from your Program Counsellor or a medical note.

All extensions on compassionate grounds must go through your Program Counsellor.

Normally, essays that arrive by the scheduled due date, with no extension, will be returned by the Thursday of the following week. Essays that arrive by the no-questions-asked extension will be returned in two weeks. Essays that arrive later will be returned when we get to them.

Late penalties on the essays (note: not the final exam) are 2% per day, to a maximum of 15%. Saturday and Sunday count 2% each. Essays that come in after the first batch have been returned will be graded by higher standards.

My late penalties are minor, but my penalties for sloppy work are major. If you write your essay at the last minute, take an extra day or two to polish it. The 2-4% you lose will be less than the 10% or more that you will lose if you turn in an essay that has not been polished and proofread.

Late penalties on the final exam are 7% per day. Final exams will not be accepted after Friday, April 13 at 11 a.m.

College of Arts Standard Statement of Expectations

E-mail Communication

As per university regulations, all students are required to check their <uoguelph.ca> e-mail account regularly: e-mail is the official route of communication between the University and its students.

When You Cannot Meet a Course Requirement

When you find yourself unable to meet an in-course requirement because of illness or compassionate reasons, please advise the course instructor (or designated person, such as a teaching assistant) in writing, with your name, id#, and e-mail contact. See the undergraduate calendar for information on regulations and procedures for Academic Consideration.

Drop Date

Courses that are one semester long must be dropped by the end of the fortieth class day (Friday, 09 March 2018); two-semester courses must be dropped by the last day of the add period in the second semester. The regulations and procedures for dropping courses are available in the Undergraduate Calendar.

Copies of out-of-class assignments

Keep paper and/or other reliable back-up copies of all out-of-class assignments: you may be asked to resubmit work at any time.

Accessibility

The University promotes the full participation of students who experience disabilities in their academic programs. To that end, the provision of academic accommodation is a shared responsibility between the University and the student.

When accommodations are needed, the student is required to first register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS). Documentation to substantiate the existence of a disability is required, however, interim accommodations may be possible while that process is underway.

Accommodations are available for both permanent and temporary disabilities. It should be noted that common illnesses such as a cold or the flu do not constitute a disability.

Use of the SAS Exam Centre requires students to book their exams at least 7 days in advance, and not later than the 40th Class Day. For more information see the SAS web site.

Student Rights and Responsibilities

Each student at the University of Guelph has rights which carry commensurate responsibilities that involve, broadly, being a civil and respectful member of the University community. The Rights and Responsibilities are detailed in the Undergraduate Calendar.

Academic Misconduct

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community – faculty, staff, and students – to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring. University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University’s policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that discourages misconduct. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection.

Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor. The Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the Undergraduate Calendar.

Recording of Materials

Presentations which are made in relation to course work – including lectures – cannot be recorded or copied without the permission of the presenter, whether the instructor, a classmate or guest lecturer. Material recorded with permission is restricted to use for that course unless further permission is granted.
