1.2 Course Description

Empire occupies a significant place in British art of the long eighteenth century (1680s-1830s). Engaging with a range of historical and theoretical perspectives to address works from a variety of artistic mediums, this seminar will explore the importance of empire during a period when Britain's world view developed from an inward-looking island to a world power, a shift that was fundamental to the emergence of a British national identity. Art was a key agent of this change as well as a significant method to critically engage with, embody, reflect upon, and resist this transformation. Providing opportunities to consider the complex relationships formed by empire, the global approach of this seminar is also relevant to tracing influences and conventions of artistic practice in this period as artists increasingly endeavoured to create, debate, and complicate the quest for a 'national' school of art, projects that implicated class, gender, race, and space.

The University promotes the full participation of students who experience disabilities in their academic programs. To that end, the provision of academic accommodation is a shared responsibility between the University and the student.

When accommodations are needed, the student is required to first register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS). Documentation to substantiate the existence of a disability is required; however, interim accommodations may be possible while that process is underway.

Accommodations are available for both permanent and temporary disabilities. It should be noted that common illnesses such as a cold or the flu do not constitute a disability.

Use of the SAS Exam Centre requires students to book their exams at least 7 days in advance and not later than the 40th Class Day.

For Guelph students, information can be found on the SAS website

For Ridgetown students, information can be found on the Ridgetown SAS website

7.6 Academic Integrity

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity, and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community-faculty, staff, and students-to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring. University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff, and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that encourages academic integrity. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection.

Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.
