

SART*2800 Experimental Studio I

Winter 2020

Section(s): C01

School of Fine Art and Music

Credit Weight: 0.50

Version 1.00 - November 01, 2019

1 Course Details

1.1 Calendar Description

This course introduces students to different processes used by the contemporary studio artist, with an emphasis on time-based and interdisciplinary forms of production. Students will be actively engaged in exploring a variety of skills, processes and concepts, in the development of video and audio art, artist multiples, and site-specific interventions. An understanding of the technical, theoretical, and historical concerns of experimental art practices will provide a solid base for upper level courses, where students will develop a stronger capacity to work with media that are appropriate to realize their ideas.

Pre-Requisites: (1 of ARTH*1220, ARTH*1510, ARTH*1520, ARTH*2220), SART*1050, SART*1060

Co-Requisites: SART*1050 can be taken as co-requisite

Restrictions: This is a Priority Access Course. Enrolment may be restricted to particular programs, specializations, majors or semester levels during certain periods. Please see the department for more information.

1.2 Course Description

This course is designed as a site for experimentation in time-based media and other forms of contemporary art practice. Students are actively engaged in exploring a variety of methods, strategies, ideas, and technical skills common to many contemporary artists.

The studio assignments and readings/podcasts are designed to provide students with a stronger understanding of the formative movements and methods rooted in contemporary art practices through an exploration and examination of a variety of avant-garde and conceptual art strategies.

Skills in a variety of media will be investigated: video, audio, artist multiples, the use of everyday objects and actions, alongside experimental and conceptual art methods.

Participation in all studio activities and discussions is critical to learning and producing successful interpretations of assignments.

1.3 Timetable

A class schedule will be distributed in the first class - subject to changes if necessary.

1.4 Final Exam

Critiques and deadlines for assignments will be listed on the class schedule distributed in the first class.

5 Teaching and Learning Activities

6 Assessments

6.1 Marking Schemes & Distributions

Participation marks are based on the student's performance in critiques, in on-going studio conversations, class discussions. The production of time-based work is often a team effort. Thus collaborating with your peers when needed and contributing to a community atmosphere is integral to fostering a thriving contemporary art community.

Studio projects and technical exercises are evaluated on degree of inventiveness, clarity, depth of investigation in synthesizing the ideas with the forms in the project, demonstration of material and technical proficiency and evidence of personal commitment. Be ambitious. Students are expected to come prepared to participate during class critiques and raise questions and/or comments to assigned readings. Group critiques are an integral component of the class structure and for creating a dynamic social community. Students are expected to offer critical feedback that is constructive and considered when discussing the strengths and weaknesses of the the work of their peers. Attendance is mandatory at critiques, as critiques are the equivalent of exams.

Important note: Late work will not be accepted. Students are expected to hand in all assignments and have all work ready for critique by the deadline.

8.4 Copies of Out-of-class Assignments

Keep paper and/or other reliable back-up copies of all out-of-class assignments: you may be asked to resubmit work at any time.

8.5 Accessibility

The University promotes the full participation of students who experience disabilities in their academic programs. To that end, the provision of academic accommodation is a shared responsibility between the University and the student.

When accommodations are needed, the student is required to first register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS). Documentation to substantiate the existence of a disability is required; however, interim accommodations may be possible while that process is underway.

Accommodations are available for both permanent and temporary disabilities. It should be noted that common illnesses such as a cold or the flu do not constitute a disability.

Use of the SAS Exam Centre requires students to book their exams at least 7 days in advance and not later than the 40th Class Day.

For Guelph students, information can be found on the SAS website

<https://www.uoguelph.ca/sas>

For Ridgetown students, information can be found on the Ridgetown SAS website

8.6 Academic Integrity

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity, and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community—faculty, staff, and students—to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring. University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff, and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that encourages academic integrity. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection.

Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.
