1.2 Course Description

Sexuality and Shakespeare
This course looks at the topic of sexuality and it's relationship Shakespeare's work. Most of the course is academic in focus, but there are two practical exercises.

The purpose is not to discern what Shakespeare's sexuality was; this would be impossible as (for instance) there was no such category as 'homosexuality' during Shakespeare's time, there were only same sex acts. However, starting with Venus and Adonis (a controversial, pornographic poem) we will examine what it's like to 'read our own sexuality into' Shakespeare's work, in the context of Stephen Guy-Bray's concept of 'homoerotic space.' We will move on to Richard II — often interpreted as a gay character. Finally we will examine the notion of the gendering of style through works by Lyly, Wilde, Barthes, Savran, and Cixous.

There are two opportunities for praxis. There will be a chance for students to learn to 'write like Shakespeare' by writing and performing (in a youtube video) a monologue in the style of Shakespeare's 'to be or not to be.' Also, as part of each student's seminar presentation they must perform a relevant Shakespearean monologue on youtube video.

FORMAT: This course will be offered in virtual synchronous fashion from 11:30-2:20 on Tuesdays in winter. In each of the first 7 classes there will be a brief 20 minute lecture, followed by an hour long seminar discussion with the whole class. Then there will be a break of at least 10 minutes. This break will be followed by another 20 minute lecture and another hour long seminar discussion with the whole class. The last 5 classes will be devoted to students preparing and delivering 2 seminars per class on assigned topics.

TEXTS: Students will be asked to purchase two hard copy Shakespeare texts, both in Folger editions: Richard II and Shakespeare’s Sonnets and Poems.

The rest of the reading material will provided online through course link or Ares Course Reserve.

7 University Statements

7.1 Email Communication

As per university regulations, all students are required to check their e-mail account regularly: e-mail is the official route of communication between the University and its students.

7.2 When You Cannot Meet a Course Requirement

When you find yourself unable to meet an in-course requirement because of illness or compassionate reasons please advise the course instructor (or designated person, such as a teaching assistant) in writing, with your name, id#, and e-mail contact. The grounds for Academic Consideration are detailed in the Undergraduate and Graduate Calendars.

7.4 Copies of Out-of-class Assignments

Keep paper and/or other reliable back-up copies of all out-of-class assignments: you may be asked to resubmit work at any time.

7.5 Accessibility

The University promotes the full participation of students who experience disabilities in their academic programs. To that end, the provision of academic accommodation is a shared responsibility between the University and the student.

When accommodations are needed, the student is required to first register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS). Documentation to substantiate the existence of a disability is required; however, interim accommodations may be possible while that process is underway.

Accommodations are available for both permanent and temporary disabilities. It should be noted that common illnesses such as a cold or the flu do not constitute a disability.

Use of the SAS Exam Centre requires students to book their exams at least 7 days in advance and not later than the 40th Class Day.

For Guelph students, information can be found on the SAS website
https://www.uoguelph.ca/sas

For Ridgetown students, information can be found on the Ridgetown SAS website

7.6 Academic Integrity
The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity, and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community—faculty, staff, and students—to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring. University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff, and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that encourages academic integrity. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection.

Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.

7.7 Recording of Materials

Presentations that are made in relation to course work— including lectures—cannot be recorded or copied without the permission of the presenter, whether the instructor, a student, or guest lecturer. Material recorded with permission is restricted to use for that course unless further permission is granted.

7.8 Resources

The Academic Calendars are the source of information about the University of Guelph’s procedures, policies, and regulations that apply to undergraduate, graduate, and diploma programs.

7.9 Disclaimer

Please note that the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic may necessitate a revision of the format of course offerings and academic schedules. Any such changes will be announced via CourseLink and/or class email. All University-wide decisions will be posted on the COVID-19 website (https://news.uoguelph.ca/2019-novel-coronavirus-information/) and circulated by email.

7.10 Illness

The University will not normally require verification of illness (doctor’s notes) for fall 2020 or winter 2021 semester courses. However, requests for Academic Consideration may still require medical documentation as appropriate.
