Course Description

This course will provide students with a more rigorous analysis of consumer and producer behaviour than is taught in introductory courses. It will focus on the determinants of consumer demand and producer supply in a perfectly competitive context. The problem of monopoly power will be analysed along with that of externalities.

Content

We will cover the following topics in the order listed. The relevant textbook chapters are indicated.

Introduction/Review: Chapters 1-3

Consumer behaviour: Chapters 4-5

Producer behaviour: Chapters 6-7

Perfect competition: Chapter 8

Monopoly: Chapter 9

Market power and pricing strategies: Chapter 10

Investment and Time: Chapter 13.1-13.2

General Equilibrium: Chapter 14

Externalities and Public Goods: Chapter 16 (time permitting)

More detailed information regarding reading will be announced week by week via Courselink.

Labs

Labs will be used to work through problems associated with the topics being covered in lectures. Further elaboration and discussion of the topics will be possible in the labs also. Lab attendance is not mandatory, with the exception of quizzes administered in the labs. You must write the quizzes in the lab for which you are registered unless you have the explicit permission of the lab instructor.

Course Resources

Required Texts: Goolsbee, Levitt, and Syverson. Microeconomics. 1st ed. New York: Worth Publishers. 2013.

All reading and lab questions will be assigned from this text.

Courselink:

Discussion groups will be enabled on the Courselink site to allow students to discuss course material amongst themselves. They will not be actively monitored.

Any necessary announcements will be made through the Courselink site and/or mass email to students' University of Guelph email accounts. Students should monitor these regularly.

Brief listings of lecture coverage will be posted as we go. Detailed notes will not be available.

Course Policies

Grading Policies

Students missing a quiz or midterm with a documented medical or compassionate reason will have an opportunity to write a make-up test. Failure to write the make-up test with a documented reason will result in the weight of that item transferred to the final exam.

Email communication

Email should be limited to questions of an administrative nature only and is not a substitute for office hours.

Course Policy regarding use of electronic devices and recording of lectures

Electronic recording of classes is expressly forbidden without consent of the instructor. When recordings are permitted they are solely for the use of the authorized student and may not be reproduced, or transmitted to others, without the express written consent of the instructor.

Academic Misconduct

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community, faculty, staff, and students to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring.

University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that discourages misconduct. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection. Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.

The Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the Undergraduate Calendar:

Accessibility

The University of Guelph is committed to creating a barrier-free environment. Providing services for students is a shared responsibility among students, faculty and administrators. This relationship is based on respect of individual rights, the dignity of the individual and the University community's shared commitment to an open and supportive learning environment. Students requiring service or accommodation, whether due to an identified, ongoing disability or a short-term disability should contact the Centre for Students with Disabilities as soon as possible.
