Funded Graduate Student Positions for Fall 2018

Funded MA and/or PhD positions in the Department of Geography at the University of Guelph are available for Fall 2018. Under the supervision of Dr. Jennifer Silver, the successful applicant(s) will develop a thesis project in one of the following areas: (a) the human dimensions of fisheries management; or, (b) digital technology and environmental governance. Prospective students will be considered based on their stated research interests, background, and academic record. Those with experience in one or more of the following are especially encouraged: political ecology; human-environment geography; science and technology studies; media and environment.

For more information or to express interest, please contact Jennifer via email (j.silver@uoguelph.ca). Expressions of interest should be accompanied with an unofficial transcript, writing sample, and resume. The successful applicant will join the Nature.Culture.Politics research group in the Department of Geography at the University of Guelph. Learn more online about our research group (www.natureculturepolitics.com) and department (http://www.uoguelph.ca/geography/).