Teaching and Learning Practices

Lectures Students will be expected to attend class lectures, complete assigned readings and assignments, and sit tests and exams.

Course Resources

Required Text:

There is no required textbook for this course. Given this, lecture materials (PowerPoint slides) and assigned readings will be posted on Courselink before each lecture. It is your responsibility to have printed a copy of the lecture slides before each class and to read all assigned readings. Material covered in class will go beyond the posted readings and power points and it is your responsibility to attend class to obtain the non-posted materials. The tests in this class will be based on both the posted and non-posted material.

This course covers a significant amount of material, resulting in each class being comprised of many slides. The rationale for the large PPT decks is so that you have the key concepts and ideas covered in every class in material that you can refer to for tests and future use. Given the number of slides for each class, it is advised that you review all the slides before class and make notes, so that you do not become overwhelmed with the pace at which material is covered during each lecture.

Optional Text:

While the pertinent material you are responsible for will be presented in class, along with accompanying examples for you to work through, those who wish to have extra practice and a more in-depth understanding of concepts should look to purchase the optional text below.

Netiquette Expectations

For courses with online environments, the course website is considered the classroom and the same protections, expectations, guidelines, and regulations used in face-to-face settings apply, plus other policies and considerations that come into play specifically because these courses are online. Inappropriate online behaviour will not be tolerated. Examples of inappropriate online behaviour include:

- Posting inflammatory messages about your instructor or fellow students;
- Using obscene or offensive language online;
- Copying or presenting someone else's work as your own;
- Adapting information from the Internet without using proper citations or references;
- Buying or selling term papers or assignments;

Submission of Assignments

Assignments for this course should be submitted in hard copy on the day they are due.

Be sure to keep a back-up copy of all of your assignments in the event that they are lost in transition. In order to avoid any last-minute computer problems, your instructor strongly recommends that you save your assignments to a cloud-based file storage (e.g., Google Docs), or send to your email account, so that should something happen to your computer, the assignment could still be submitted on time or re-submitted.

It is your responsibility to submit your assignments on time as specified on the Schedule. Be sure to check the technical requirements and make sure you have the proper computer, that you have a supported browser, and that you have reliable Internet access. Remember that technical difficulty is not an excuse not to turn in your assignment on time. Don't wait until the last minute as you may get behind in your work.

If, for some reason, you have a technical difficulty when submitting your assignment electronically, please contact your instructor.

Late Policy

No assignments will be accepted late in this class.

Extensions will be considered for medical reasons or other extenuating circumstances. If you require an extension, discuss this with the instructor as soon as possible and well before the due date. Barring exceptional circumstances, extensions will not be granted once the due date has passed. These rules are not designed to be arbitrary, nor are they inflexible. They are designed to keep you organized, to ensure that all students have the same amount of time to work on assignments, and to help to return marked materials to you in the shortest possible time.

Students who find themselves unable to meet course requirements by the deadlines or the criteria expected because of medical or personal reasons, should review the regulations on academic consideration in the Academic Calendar and discuss their situation with the instructor, program counselor or other academic counselor as appropriate.

Your course will remain open to you for seven days following the last day of the final exam period.

Final grades will be available at the end of the semester. Students can access their final grade by logging into WebAdvisor (using your U of G central ID).

Academic Misconduct

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community, faculty, staff, and students to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring.

Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection. Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.
