Course Description

The course provides an experiential learning opportunity where students develop foundational skills in communication, teamwork, business development, social innovation, project management, and entrepreneurship to make them highly employable.

As a major component of their work, the students form small teams and work in partnership with an external partner on a project related to a key agri-food challenge as identified by the external partner. Teams consist of 3-4 graduate students of mixed disciplines who are required to work together 8-10 hours per week on the project for this 8-month course.

Course Learning Outcomes

Upon successfully completing this course, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding:

1. Identify the roles, types of strategies, and management challenges faced in various organizations involved in the agriculture and food systems;
2. Apply management and stakeholder engagement models to understand and develop approaches to addressing an agri-food challenge;

Discipline/Professional and Transferable Skills:

3. Communicate and collaborate with peers and external partners to address a key agri-food challenge as identified by external partners;
4. Produce and deliver a variety of Knowledge mobilization tools such as presentation, web/blogs, videos, podcasts, slide decks, etc.

Summary of Course Content and Materials

This course uses organized classes on Mondays from 2:30 to 5:20. Other class work will available online in CourseLink and synchronous meetings that are set up by the Teaching Team.

Academic Misconduct: The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community, faculty, staff, and students to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring. University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that discourages misconduct. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection. Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor. The Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the Undergraduate Calendar:
