Surveillance Programs

Occupational Health Surveillance Programs are designed with the objective of protecting the health of the individual employee, detecting the early stage of any adverse health effects related to potential work hazards, assisting in the evaluation of control measures and monitoring the immune status of the employees.

Faculty and staff who are involved in research projects and work in areas with potential exposures to work hazards should contact Occupational Health & Wellness at ext 52647 for the appropriate recommendations.

For a full listing of surveillance programs and additional information, see the Occupational Health Surveillance webpage [1].
