COVID -19 Learning & Development Program Update

Our HR Learning & Development team is working diligently at identifying web-based learning workshops that can provide tools, resources and skills to meet a diversity of needs that have been identified as we all try to adapt to remote or challenging work conditions. The focus will be on providing 1 hour, interactive sessions that provide opportunities for discussion, connection and generating ideas on relevant and practical topics from running effective meetings remotely, to staying focused and productive in a home full of distractions, to managing through the uncertainty of these times. Dates and times will be posted the week of April 6th, along with links to registration. Check back regularly as we will continue to add new offerings as we identify them. (Updated April 2, 2020)

We would like to inform you that in an effort to minimize close contact and be mindful of physical distancing at this time, we have postponed or cancelled many of the HR Learning & Development programs scheduled up to the end of April. We will be contacting registrants directly if the course they are registered for will be available remotely. We are in the process of updating the Event Calendar [1] to reflect the changes, so please check it to view the programs that will be available remotely or through online learning. We appreciate your patience through this period and will do our best to answer your questions. (Updated March 16, 2020)

Learning & Development Programs for Winter/Spring 2020 are now available for your registration.
Please check out the full set of programs available to staff and faculty on the Event Calendar [1] or download our Learning & Development Guide to Programs and Services [2].

In the Guide, we have organized the offerings into sections and provided links to make navigation and printing sections much easier.

New Symbols

Look for the addition of symbols that indicate if a program is new this year or is homegrown. The “NEW” symbol indicates that it is the first time we are offering the program and the “HG” (homegrown) symbol indicates that a staff member of the University of Guelph has donated their time to share their skills and knowledge to benefit others.

New Programs

New programs this year include Understanding the University Environment (one of the Management Essentials online courses), UofG HR Learning & Development Athletics Partnership programs, Team Building for leaders and for staff, best practices on Social Media, Mental Health Training sessions, RBC Royal Bank Employee Financial Wellness Lunch and Learn Sessions and lots more.

An exciting initiative is the NEW @ the U program, which is the University of Guelph’s customized New Employee Welcome (NEW) program! Check out the NEW @ the U section of our program guide, and browse the Human Resources website section dedicated to the NEW @ the U program [3].

The University is committed to human rights and employment equity. If you need an accommodation to access a learning and development opportunity please contact Linda Watt, Director, Learning & Development and Consulting Services at extension 56509 or Michael Dunstan, Manager Occupational Health and Wellness at extension 52133.

Email Learning & Development [4] or contact a member of our team [5] if you are undecided about which program to register for. We can help you identify your learning needs and the programs and learning opportunities that best suit you!
