

Peter Seidl Memorial Scholarship

Value: 1 award of $1,000

Awarded: Winter

Deadline: December 1

Description: Established in memory of Peter Seidl, MSc '80 by the Seidl family. Peter's interest in aquatic sciences led to a career in environmental consulting, working on water quality issues as the Secretary to the Research Council of the Great Lakes, and later, as an environmental specialist for the World Bank, assisting developing countries. Apply to the Department of Integrative Biology by December 1. Master's students with at least an A- average in the previous two years of full-time or equivalent study registered in the Department of Integrative Biology and in semester 1.0 to 6.0 are eligible. Students must be conducting research related to the quality of wildlife habitat, including fresh and saltwater environments.

Application: Scholarship Application Package

- current CV
- 1 page summary of graduate research
- unofficial transcript
- 1 letter of support from faculty member