JONAS: The management economics and finance major at the University of Guelph is an excellent major it offers emphasis in both finance and economics and offers considerable opportunity for students who are looking for a full-time job when they graduate. I chose the management economics and finance major at the University of Guelph for a few reasons. Number one Guelph had a strong reputation for a co-op program which would allow me to get real world experience and make some money while going to school number two I deemed it to be the most versatile major offered at the University of Guelph in the business program. When I started at the University of Guelph I wasn't quite sure what I wanted to do I knew I wanted to get into business but I wasn't exactly sure in what aspect and I decided that through co-op I was going to learn more about where I wanted to work I worked at Kenna a marketing agency Inscap a multinational office furniture manufacturer in a finance capacity and I'm very excited to start my job at Blackberry very shortly. Another great opportunity that I've had in my time at the University of Guelph is representing the University and the College of Business and Economics at Canada's largest undergraduate case study competition. DECA is a huge gathering of undergraduate business students looking to solve real-world problems in a case study environment. It has taught me how to think on my feet how to lead members of a team and have a problem solved like no other experience. Some of my courses and professors provide us with the excellent opportunity to meet business professionals in the form of classroom talks we've had numerous executives from top-level companies come in and talk about their experiences in business and relate it directly to course material having these individuals attend our classes really provides us a link for what we're learning in the classroom and relates it to the real world I absolutely feel ready for a career and confident in my ability to succeed in the workforce upon graduation. University as a whole has taught me how to be much more professional how to be much more outgoing getting involved with the students associations that I did and attending the University and being engaged and being an active member of the student body has really made that easy for me and in hindsight it's crazy to see how much I've changed over the years and it makes me excited for my future.
