

PSYC*3000-02, Course Outline: Winter 2022

General Information

DUE to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic some courses are being offered virtually and some face to face. This course is offered using the Face-to-Face format. The course has set day, time, and location of class.

Course Title: Historical and Critical Perspectives on Psychology

Course Description:

The purpose of this course is to help students understand the socio-historical and theoretical context of modern psychological research and practice. This includes: 1) evaluating basic assumptions underlying modern psychology by drawing on historical, theoretical and philosophical perspectives, and 2) investigating historical and current controversies within psychology. Topics may include the question of psychology's universality and scientific status, the assumptions embedded in psychological theory and research methodology, the history of madness and psychotherapy, and the relations between psychology, power, ethics, and politics.

Credit Weight: 0.5

Academic Department (or campus): Psychology

Semester Offering: W22

Class Schedule and Location: Tuesdays and Thursdays 10am – 11:20am in MAC 149. Note that the university has scheduled in-person classes to resume on Jan 31, 2022, which means that (at least) the first two weeks of class will occur virtually.

Final exam (take-home)	Friday, April 8 th , 8pm	20%	1, 2, 3, 4
Participation in class discussion	Feb 18 th End of term	10% 10%	1, 2, 3, 4

Reflection papers (6 x 10%)

60%

You are expected to submit 6 reflection papers over the course of the semester. Reflection papers are due on Mondays by 5pm (see the class schedule) and are written on the previous week's topic.

Please note: You may submit more than 6 (up to 10) reflection papers. They will be graded, but only the 6 highest grades will count toward your final grade.

Guidelines for reflection papers

- The main aim of the reflection papers is to provide you with a written means of engaging with the readings and class discussions. Reflection papers are written in response to readings and class discussions that have already taken place, and are due the Monday after the preceding Tues/Thurs classes.
- Your task is not to summarize the week's readings, but rather to critically and creatively engage with, and make sense of, the ideas and topics raised for the week. Here are some ideas that can help you focus your paper:
 - Engage with (respond to, relate to, discuss, debate, compare, refute etc.) the authors' ideas or arguments
 - Reflect on your learning: How has your thinking changed? What assumptions did you have that were challenged? What has been tricky, disturbing, upsetting, complicated, confusing, etc.?
 - Make connections between weekly readings or with other courses you are taking, your experiences or with current events
 - Explore how critical historical perspectives challenge your understanding of psychology
 - Explore how the readings relate to your own research and thinking
 - Make an attempt to articulate your understanding of a particular idea, concept, issue or argument from the readings (while being honest about what you are struggling to understand).
- It will not be possible to do all of this in one paper, and in fact, it may be better to choose one of these as a focus for your paper for the week.
- The reflection papers are meant to be part of an ongoing reflection on new and sometimes complex ideas, and you can expect that your ideas about things will change as the course progresses. This means that your papers can be exploratory.
- The TAs will look for evidence that you have read and thought about the course material when grading your papers, so read the papers deeply and perhaps even more than once, take notes, highlight passages that are interesting or intriguing, write out questions or connections in the margins, and use these to help you identify potential topics to explore in your reflection papers.

Format for submissions:

- APA referencing is only necessary if you want to cite materials other than those on your reading list.
- Length is 600 – 900 words (2 – 3 double spaced pages).
- Quality is more important than quantity!
- Submissions need to be electronic via the CourseLink dropbox (please double check that your file has uploaded).
- Use any of the following file formats: .doc, .docx, .pdf, .rtf.

Late penalties:

- 10% subtracted for each day late up to a maximum of 3 days (after that assignments receive an automatic zero)

Other:

- If you miss class for legitimate reasons (e.g., illness) you will still need to submit a reflection paper.

Final exam (take home)

20%

In Week 11 of the course (1st of April) you will write a final take-home exam. Using CourseLink, the exam question(s) will be given to you at 8:00am on April 1st, and the completed exam is due on April 3rd by 8:00pm.

Exam format

The exam will be essay-based, in which you will respond to questions asking you to take stock of and integrate what you have learned in the course. Your exam response should be no longer than 1000 words. You are free to consult your readings, notes, class discussions, reflection papers and additional research to answer the exam questions. While you may discuss the exam with your classmates, your exam response must be your own. We will be on the lookout for plagiarism. There will be no class on Wednesday April 1st, but your TAs will be available for consultation in MAC149 during regular class time.

Participation in discussions

You are expected to have completed the readings before coming to class.

You will be assessed on the quality of meaningful engagement in class discussions. I expect students to attend every class, except in the case of emergencies, and to come prepared to discuss the assigned readings.

Guidelines for class discussion

Class discussions are the main component of this course. Their main purpose is to provide an opportunity to explore ideas and to clarify your understanding of course material. For this reason, it is to be expected that you will change your mind, perhaps several times, on topics and issues in the course. Your discussion grade is not based on whether you agree or disagree with the course readings or with others in your class, but on the ways in which you are able to do so respectfully, coherently and reflexively.

Course Policies

Grading Policies

Undergraduate Grading Procedures

Re-Grading of Assignments Policy

Where a student is of the belief that an assignment has not been accurately graded, they are to pursue a 2-step course policy: 1) as soon as possible, meet with the original TA that graded the assignment, and if a student remains dissatisfied, 2) they can request from the instructor that another TA re-grade the assignment. Note that the student will be required to accept the re-grade, whether it be higher or lower.

Course Policy regarding use of electronic devices and recording of lectures:

Electronic recording of classes is expressly forbidden without consent of the instructor. When recordings are permitted they are solely for the use of the authorized student and may not be reproduced, or transmitted to others, without the express written consent of the instructor. Similarly, any material created by the course instructor is intended for those enrolled in this course solely. Under no circumstances are you allowed to disseminate course materials to external parties.

Student Rights and Responsibilities when Learning Online

Privacy Rights

Lectures held via Zoom may be recorded for the purpose of later review. As a student, you have the right to protect your privacy online and may choose to turn off your video and/or audio when in session. In the event that your video and/or audio remain on, please note that you are consenting to your presence in lecture recordings. Under no circumstances are you permitted to transmit copies of the recordings to others, without the express written consent of the instructor.

Recording of Lecture Materials

The University of Guelph's primary mode of course delivery has shifted from face-to-face instruction to remote and online learning due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, some learning activities (e.g., synchronous lectures or student presentations) may be recorded by faculty, instructors and TAs and posted to CourseLink for grading and dissemination; students may be recorded during these sessions.

By enrolling in a course, unless explicitly stated and brought forward to their instructor, it is assumed that students agree to the possibility of being recorded during lecture, seminar or other "live" course activities, whether delivery is in-class or online/remote.

If a student prefers not to be distinguishable during a recording, they may:

- turn off their camera
- mute their microphone
- edit their name (e.g., initials only) upon entry to each session
- use the chat function to pose questions.

Students who express to their instructor that they, or a reference to their name or person, do not wish to be recorded may discuss possible alternatives or accommodations with their instructor.

Online behaviour

According to the University Secretariat, students have a responsibility to help support community members' access to the tools they need to engage in their learning and development, both in and outside of the classroom. An example of this type of responsibility is the requirement to abide by the following:

Section 4.3.3. Disruption - to not interfere with the normal functioning of the University, nor to intimidate, interfere with, threaten or otherwise obstruct any activity organized by the University, including classes, or to hinder other members of the University community from being able to carry on their legitimate activities, including their ability to speak or associate with others.

As such, appropriate online behaviour will not be tolerated. Examples of inappropriate online behaviour include:

- Posting inflammatory messages about your instructor or fellow students
- Using obscene or offensive language online
- Copying or presenting someone else's work as your own
- Adapting information from the Internet without using proper citations or references
- Buying or selling term papers or assignments
- Posting or selling course materials to course notes websites
- Having someone else complete your quiz or completing a quiz for/with another student
- Stating false claims about lost quiz answers or other assignment submissions
- Threatening or harassing a student or instructor online
- Discriminating against fellow students, instructors and/or TAs
- Using the course website to promote profit-driven products or services
- Attempting to compromise the security or functionality of the learning management system
- Sharing your username and password

Disclaimer:

Please note that the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic may necessitate a revision of the format of course offerings, changes in classroom protocols, and academic schedules. Any such changes will be announced via CourseLink and/or class email. This includes on-campus scheduling during the semester, mid-terms and final examination schedules. All University-wide decisions will be posted on the COVID-19 website (<https://news.uoguelph.ca/2019-novel-coronavirus-information/>) and circulated by email.

Academic Consideration

When you find yourself unable to meet an in-course requirement because of illness or compassionate reasons, please advise the course instructor in writing, with your name, id#, and e-mail contact. See the academic calendar for information on regulations and procedures for

Academic Consideration:

Academic Misconduct

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community, faculty, staff, and students to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring.

University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that discourages misconduct. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection. Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.

The Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the Undergraduate Calendar:

Academic Misconduct Policy

Illness

Medical notes will not normally be required for singular instances of academic consideration, although students may be required to provide supporting documentation for multiple missed assessments or when involving a large part of a course (e.g., final exam or major assignment).

Accessibility

The University of Guelph is committed to creating a barrier-free environment. Providing services for students is a shared responsibility among students, faculty and administrators. This relationship is based on respect of individual rights, the dignity of the individual and the University community's shared commitment to an open and supportive learning environment. Students requiring service or accommodation, whether due to an identified, ongoing disability or a short-term disability should contact Student Accessibility Services as soon as possible.

For more information, contact SAS at 519-824-4120 ext. 54335 or email accessibility@uoguelph.ca or the Student Accessibility Services Website

Student Feedback Questionnaire

These questionnaires (formerly course evaluations) will be available to students during the last 2 weeks of the semester: March. 28th – April 08th. Students will receive an email directly from the Student Feedback Administration system which will include a direct link to the questionnaire for this course. During this time, when a student goes to login to Courselink, a reminder will pop-up when a task is available to complete.

Drop date

The last date to drop one-semester courses, without academic penalty, is April 08, 2022. For regulations and procedures for Dropping Courses, see the Schedule of Dates in the Academic Calendar

Instructors must provide meaningful and constructive feedback, at minimum 20% of the final course grade, prior to the 40th class day. For courses which are of shorter duration, 20% of the final grade must be provided two-thirds of the way through the course.
