Course Content

Specific Learning Outcomes:

1) Depth and Breadth of Understanding: Students should be able to: demonstrate mastery of a body of knowledge; gather, review, evaluate, and interpret information; compare the merits of alternate hypotheses in core areas of I/O psychology; and critically evaluate the limits of their own knowledge and how these limits influence analysis.

2) Reading Comprehension: The understanding of theoretical and empirical literature on job performance and related topics. Students should demonstrate a well-developed ability to extract theoretical and empirical information from complex psychological articles, and to generate ideas and questions from written text in the field of psychology.

3) Inquiry and Analysis: A systematic process of exploring issues, objects and works in psychology through the collection and analysis of evidence that result in informed conclusions or judgments. Students should be able to: ask and attempt to answer many questions from a critical perspective, develop novel hypotheses to explore further possibilities, and plan quality research.

4) Methodological Literacy: The ability to understand, evaluate, and design appropriate methodologies for rigorous psychological science. Students should be able to: design appropriate methodologies for novel psychological research situations, and tailor methodologies to particular populations and circumstances.

5) Written Communication: The ability to express one’s ideas and summarize theory and research through a variety of writing styles. Students should: write in a sophisticated manner clearly conveying their message to a target audience, use a breadth of vocabulary appropriate to the discipline of psychology, effectively edit their own work; and avoid grammar, spelling, and structural errors.

6) Oral Communication: Includes interpersonal skills, oral speaking and active listening as they apply to the class topic. Students should be able to demonstrate the ability to present information in ways that the receiving party can easily understand, exhibit confidence as a public speaker, facilitate discussion of complex concepts effectively, actively listen, reflect upon, and respond effectively to questions while acknowledging limitations to one’s psychological knowledge.

Additional Notes (if required):

In-class participation (30%). Being present physically (attendance) and psychologically (active listening, participating, and refraining from other activities during presentations, discussions, and practical exercises (e.g., off topic phone and laptop activity). Each class students will receive a grade between 0-5. Refraining from off topic activities = 2 points, 1 point for listening, 2 points for participating. Unaccounted for absence results in a grade of 0/5 for the week. 12 classes each worth 5 points = 60 points total.
Weekly discussion questions (20%). Every week that there are assigned discussion readings (weeks 3 through 12), students will be required to submit questions to facilitate the discussion period. For each of the assigned readings, students need to submit 5 questions that are intended to facilitate in-class discussion. Students will receive a grade out of 4 for turning in their questions: 2 points for completion and 2 points for demonstrating effort and thought in generating questions.

What to avoid: Your comments should not consist of a summary of what you have read. Your comment should not consist of things you do not understand in the readings.

Ideas for discussion comments: Is adequate support provided for the conclusions? Are there alternative explanations? Do the results conflict with other findings or theory? Are there practical applications that the findings could inform? Is there a next experiment that you can propose that would extend the research?

Discussion Leading (5%). Each week a student will be responsible for assisting in leading the in-class discussion. You need to come to class with a prepared list of questions, comments, observations, and critical evaluations that you wish to pose to the class as a result of the readings. At the beginning of class, you need to hand in your list of questions, comments, observations, and critical evaluations.

Presentation (20%). On chosen topic provided in course outline. Presentations will be scored out of 100. Goal of presentation is to educate and instruct class on the selected topic/question and to practice presentation skills.

Final Paper (25%). Students will submit an op-ed style response paper (“a clear thesis, backed by rigorously arranged evidence, that serves persuasive argument”) students are select a topic related to course content. It is advised to have the topic approved by course instructor. The op-ed response must be informed by course content.

Final examination date and time: No final exam.

Course Policies

Grading Policies

All assignments will be graded in accordance with standards established by the University of Guelph. [Graduate Grade interpretation]

Failure to present selected topic will result in grade of zero.
Discussion questions submitted after the start of class will receive a grade of zero.
Final papers submitted after December 6th will be penalized 10% each day.

Please note that these policies are binding unless academic consideration is given to an individual student.

Course Policy regarding use of electronic devices and recording of lectures:

Electronic recording of classes is expressly forbidden without consent of the instructor. When recordings are permitted they are solely for the use of the authorized student and may not be reproduced, or transmitted to others, without the express written consent of the instructor.

Student Rights and Responsibilities when Learning Online

Privacy Rights
Lectures held via Virtual Classroom on Courselink may be recorded for the purpose of posting them for students. As a student, you have the right to protect your privacy online and may choose to turn off your video and/or audio when in session. In the event that your video and/or audio remain on, please note that you are consenting to your presence in lecture recordings. Under no circumstances are you permitted to transmit copies of the recordings to others, without the express written consent of the instructor.

Online behaviour
According to the University Secretariat, students have a responsibility to help support community members’ access to the tools they need to engage in their learning and development, both in and outside of the classroom. An example of this type of responsibility is the requirement to abide by the following:
Section 4.3.3. Disruption - to not interfere with the normal functioning of the University, nor to intimidate, interfere with, threaten or otherwise obstruct any activity organized by the University, including classes, or to hinder other members of the University community from being able to carry on their legitimate activities, including their ability to speak or associate with others.

As such, appropriate online behaviour will not be tolerated. Examples of inappropriate online behaviour include

- Posting inflammatory messages about your instructor or fellow students
- Using obscene or offensive language online
- Copying or presenting someone else's work as your own
- Adapting information from the Internet without using proper citations or references
- Buying or selling term papers or assignments
- Posting or selling course materials to course notes websites
- Having someone else complete your quiz or completing a quiz for/with another student
- Stating false claims about lost quiz answers or other assignment submissions
- Threatening or harassing a student or instructor online
- Discriminating against fellow students, instructors and/or TAs
- Using the course website to promote profit-driven products or services
- Attempting to compromise the security or functionality of the learning management system
- Sharing your username and password

University Policies

Academic Consideration

When you find yourself unable to meet an in-course requirement because of illness or compassionate reasons, please advise the course instructor in writing, with your name, id#, and e-mail contact. See the academic calendar for information on regulations and procedures for Academic Consideration:

Grounds for Academic Consideration

Medical notes will not normally be required for singular instances of academic consideration, although students may be required to provide supporting documentation for multiple missed assessments or when involving a large part of a course (e.g., final exam or major assignment).

Academic Misconduct

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community, faculty, staff, and students to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring.

University of Guelph students have the responsibility of abiding by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that discourages misconduct. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection. Please note: Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor.

The Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the Graduate Calendar:

Accessibility

The University of Guelph is committed to creating a barrier-free environment. Providing services for students is a shared responsibility among students, faculty and administrators. This relationship is based on respect of individual rights, the dignity of the individual and the University community's shared commitment to an open and supportive learning environment. Students requiring service or accommodation, whether due to an identified, ongoing disability or a short-term disability should contact Student Accessibility Services as soon as possible.

For more information, contact SAS at 519-824-4120 ext. 54335 or email accessibility@uoguelph.ca or the Student Accessibility Services Website

Course Evaluation Information

Please refer to the Course and Instructor Evaluation Website.

Drop date

The last date to drop one-semester courses, without academic penalty, is December 3, 2021. For regulations and procedures for Dropping Courses, see Current Graduate Calendar.
