13. The Department of Psychology at the University of Guelph is committed to fostering a culture of equity, diversity, and inclusion. This process involves acknowledging that members of equity-seeking groups may have experienced barriers to education, employment, and full participation, due to structural and other factors (e.g. systemic discrimination, economic disadvantage, anti-black racism, racism, sexism, ableism, transphobia, or homophobia) that work to underestimate their true merit and potential. We invite and encourage applications from all qualified individuals, including from groups that are traditionally underrepresented in higher education, who may contribute to further diversification of our Institution. Examples of such underrepresented identities may relate to (but are not limited to): ethnic origin, race, Indigeneity, colour, sex, gender, age, (dis)ability, creed, ancestry, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, socioeconomic status, and place of origin.

If there is any information about yourself, your background, any barriers you have faced, or experiences that you would like us to consider in light of our commitment to equity, please include that information here. This information will help us view your application through an equity lens, with an understanding of the complexities of applicants' lived experiences, and allow you to contextualize aspects of your application where you feel it would be helpful for the Committee. Please note: providing this information is completely voluntary.

14. Applicants with an A- average or higher are strongly encouraged to seek external scholarships (e.g. CIHR, OGS, NSERC, SSHRC).
