MA Program

The Department of Political Science offers programs of study leading to the MA degree. Students may pursue either a thesis option or a major paper option, both of which are research-based.

The MA program's focus is on three fields: the Americas, public policy and administration, and international and comparative development. The Americas field includes the study of the government and politics of Canada, the United States, and Latin America and the Caribbean from a comparative and theoretical perspective. The public policy and administration field includes the study of the operation and management of governmental institutions and selected areas of public policy. The international and comparative development field includes both area studies and theories of development which link these areas.

The department works jointly with the Department of Political Science at McMaster University in offering a collaborative program in public policy and administration. Faculty members in the department also participate in the Collaborative International Development Studies program. The MA program can be completed in three semesters. Students who are admitted will normally receive funding as a Graduate Teaching Assistant or a Graduate Research Assistant.

Application Procedure

Graduate students are admitted each fall semester (approximately 15 students). The deadline for all application is February 1 each year and the fee is currently $75 in the form of a money order, payable to the University of Guelph. Personal cheques will be returned, which will slow down the processing of your application. If you apply on-line, you can pay by credit card.

You may apply in one of two ways:

- On-line -- we encourage you to use this method
- Download an application form.

Both of these methods can be found at www.uoguelph.ca/GraduateStudies/admission.htm

Information you are required to send to the Graduate Secretary, Department of Political Science, University of Guelph, Guelph, ON N1G 2W1.

- Application form from the downloaded application at the above web site

OR

The PDF summary of your on-line application MUST be printed out and submitted to the department with your other documents.

- A one-page Statement of Interest which clearly outlines your proposed area of interest. This statement is very important so that the members of the admissions committee can make their decisions.
- All official university transcripts. We do not require transcripts from community colleges.
- Two academic letters of reference - you must use the assessment forms from the downloadable application form.
- TOEFL scores or other English Language tests from all students whose first language is not English.

NOTE: This is a self-administered application process. Please have all materials (reference letters, transcripts, application form, letter of intent) returned to you and you put everything in one envelope and send to the Department of Political Studies Graduate Program Secretary.

Admission Requirements

The department requires an Honours BA degree (4 years) in political science (or its equivalent) with at least a 'B' average (second-class standing) for consideration for admission to the program. A methodology course equivalent to The Systematic Study of Politics, POLS*3650, in the Department of Political Science undergraduate program, is necessary for admission to the graduate program. Students not satisfying this requirement may be admitted with the provision that it be satisfied by completing the requisite extra course.

Degree Requirements

Departmental Program - Guelph MA Program in the Fields of the Americas, Public Policy and Administration, and International and Comparative Development

In order to fulfill the requirements of the MA degree, students must complete the requirements of either the thesis or the major paper options.

Thesis option:

Interuniversity Program - Guelph-McMaster Collaborative MA Program in Political Science in the Field of Public Policy and Administration

The collaborative program in public policy and administration is an initiative on the part of the Departments of Political Science at the University of Guelph and McMaster University to co-ordinate their involvement in this particular field.

The program successfully melds policy studies and administrative studies into a unique program of study in Canada. Students can avail themselves of core courses that may be offered at either institution. Up to 50% of courses can be taken at each university. The program term is one year. All the courses are grounded within the discipline of political science, while giving attention and regard to the contribution of related disciplines - like economics, law and sociology.

Graduates enjoy successful careers in the public services of Canada, Ontario and other provinces, plus local governments. Some work for businesses and others for interest associations and non-governmental organizations. A number of graduates have pursued PhD's and now teach in universities and colleges.

Course of Study

The fall and winter semesters consist of all core courses and 2 specialized electives. The summer semester differs for students who are formally enrolled at Guelph and those formally enrolled at McMaster.

Category A: Core Courses

Students must complete all core courses. Public Policy and Administration Research Seminar will be offered in alternating weeks at both universities during one of the fall or winter semesters.

POLS*6630 or MCM*7830	Policy Analysis
POLS*6640 or MCM*7850	Canadian Public Administration: Public Sector Management
POLS*6940 or MCM*7960	Political Research: Theories & Approaches
POLS*6950 or MCM*7940	Quantitative Research Design and Methods Public Policy & Admin. Research Seminar
POLS*6900	Proseminar (Guelph Students)

Category B: Specialized Electives

Students choose two additional courses from the annual listing of specialized courses offered at both McMaster and Guelph.

Category C: Summer Semester:

POLS*6970 Major Paper (Guelph students)
Students at Guelph will research and write a major paper (approximately 10,000 words) to be graded by the student's advisor and second reader (advisory committee).

Students at McMaster will write comprehensive examinations in mid July in the major field of Public Policy and Administration and in a minor field chosen from Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics or International Relations.

Interdepartmental Programs

Rural Studies PhD Program

The Department of Political Science is a participant in the PhD program in Rural Studies in the field of sustainable rural communities. Included in the graduate faculty for this program are J. Clark, C. Dauda, J. Diez, Craig Johnson, and I. Spears. PhD students will enroll in the interdepartmental rural studies program; those with advisors in the Department of Political Science will have access to departmental facilities. Please consult the Rural Studies listing for a detailed description.

Collaborative International Development Studies MA/MSc Program

The Department of Political Science participates in the MA Collaborative International Development Studies (CIDS) program. Please consult the International Development Studies listing for a detailed description of the MA collaborative program including the special additional requirements for each of the participating departments.

Thesis option in the CIDS program:

Students pursuing a thesis option will complete six courses plus Pro-Seminar and a thesis as described below for a total of 3.75 credits.

- One professional development and orientation course:
POLS*6900 0.25 Pro-Seminar
- Five CIDS core courses: (See the Collaborative International Development Program entry in this calendar (2.50)
- One methodology course:
POLS*6940 0.5 Political Research: Theories and Approaches or an approved equivalent course from another department.
- One departmental graduate course (0.5).
- With the permission of the Graduate Committee, complete and successfully defend a thesis of no more than 20,000 words.

Major Paper option :

Students pursuing the major paper option will complete eight courses plus Proseminar and a major paper as described below for a total of 5.25 credits.

- One professional development and orientation course:
POLS*6900 0.25 Pro-Seminar
- Five CIDS core courses: See Collaborative International Development Program entry in this calendar (2.50)
