

University of Guelph

Congratulations to University of Guelph biologist Prof. Steve Marshall! Steve was awarded the 2013 Gold Medal from the Entomological Society of Canada for his outstanding contributions to insect studies. As a researcher, professor and manager of the U of G's internationally renowned insect collection, Steve and his research group have discovered and named more than 750 new insect species over the past 30 years (such as Sapadrama citrina, the recently described genus and species of fruit fly pictured overleaf). Steve is the third University of Guelph professor to win this award in its 51-year history.

UNIVERSITY of GUELPH

CHANGING LIVES
IMPROVING LIFE

Kevin Hall
Vice-President
(Research and External Partnerships)

Learn more about University of Guelph research by visiting www.uoguelph.ca/research

Office of the Vice-President (Research and External Partnerships)
University of Guelph, Guelph ON Canada N1G 2W1
519-824-4120 Ext. 53081

Overleaf: Photo courtesy of Steve Marshall