

Call for Participants

Do you identify as a youth?

Do you want to talk about how the changing climate makes you feel?

The Study:

Stories in Urgent Times: Ecological Emotions, Speculative Futures, and Pedagogical Possibilities with Ontario Youth seeks participants for a study on how youth feel about climate change and envision and prepare for uncertain futures.

Who:

* Identify as a youth (youth is a flexible category, not a fixed age group, if you identify as a youth you are eligible)

- * Are 16 or older
- * Live in Ontario
- * Can participate in English

What and Where:

Participation involves attending a climate cafe, either online or in person, where you will discuss your feelings and experiences of climate change through open-ended questions.

You can also join an optional 5-week online speculative digital storytelling workshop for a few hours each week and participate in two focus groups to review a policy brief and pedagogical guide about climate emotions.

Honorarium:

Participants will receive a $30 honorarium for attending a climate cafe.

Interested?

Please complete the following brief form:

https://uoguelph.eu.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_eRKFbBx5ZX4YTMW

Questions: Please contact Dr. Kim Collins at kcolli07@uoguelph.ca

This project has been reviewed by the Human Research Ethics Board for its compliance with federal guidelines for research involving human subjects (REB#1443) and is supported in part by funding from the Social Science and Humanities and Research Council of Canada.

