

Mothers of Young Children (24 to 47 months) needed to participate in important research

What is the study about?

To understand how mood affects parent safety practices in the home

What will you be asked to do?

1. Complete a short online survey about your background (e.g., marital status) and mood (e.g., feelings of sadness and worries) that you have experienced.
2. Eligible participants will be contacted to schedule a one-time ONLINE interview to discuss questions about parenting and asked to complete additional online questionnaires about your child's behavior and parenting beliefs.

Parents report enjoying the visit AND it helps us learn about what supports parents of young children need!

Compensation: Complete the survey and be entered into a raffle for a chance to win a family photo-shoot with a local professional photographer AND eligible participants who consent to participate can earn up to $75.00 CAD!

Interested? Please visit the link below to complete the (~15 min) online survey!

<https://tinyurl.com/umyapsq>

For more information: contact Lindsay at ParentingForSafety@uoguelph.ca

Child Development Research Unit – Director: Dr. Barbara Morrongiello