What is my role?

Each of us plays a critical role on campus in fostering and promoting student mental health and wellness. Students experiencing challenges will often turn to you for help. It is important to express your concern for the student and refer them to the appropriate campus resource. You can make a difference helping students in distress and preventing deterioration of health.

Reach Out → Tell Someone → Refer Support
REACH OUT

What Do I Do?
- Take time to listen carefully to the student’s thoughts and feelings.
- Take the problem seriously; avoid judging, evaluating, or criticizing.
- In non-judgmental terms, let the student know that you are concerned about his or her health and well-being.
- Give the student personal support but be cautious about giving advice; maintain clear and consistent boundaries.
